

CONTENTS

	page
List of Figures and Tables	VII
Introduction	1
1. Intangible resources and relational capital	5
1.1. Premise	5
1.2. From industrial capital to relational capital	17
1.3. The various approaches to the study of relational capital: Micro, Macro and Managerial	21
1.4. The qualitative and quantitative aspect of Relational Capital: a hypothesis of definition and analysis	25
1.5. Relational capital and knowledge translation	31
2. Relational Capital in SME Dimension	33
2.1. Premise	33
2.2. Women and Companies	40
2.3. Incentives for Female Entrepreneurs	45
2.3.1. Women, Sustainable development, and Entrepreneurial Education	47
2.4. The development of studies on Female Entrepreneurial Activities	49
2.5. The Importance Of The Network For Female Entrepreneurs	54
2.6. Female Models On The Processes Of Company Creation	56
3. Methodology	61
3.1. Premise	61
3.2. General cognitive objectives	62
3.3. Research methodology	64
3.4. The expression of research	68

	page
3.4.1. Scheduling	69
3.4.1.1. Development of the theory	69
3.4.1.2. Selection of the case	70
3.4.1.3. Organisation of data collection	71
3.4.2. Experimentation	71
3.4.2.1. The case studies	71
3.4.3. Rationalisation	72
3.4.3.1. Composition of narrative reports	72
3.4.3.2. Data analysis	74
3.4.3.3. Possible modifications and conflicting reports	74
4. The interpretative model	75
4.1. Premise	75
4.2. The C.A.O.S. model (Personal characteristics, Environment, Organisation Start-up)	76
4.3. The C.A.O.S. of female enterprises	78
4.3.1. Personal characteristics of the female entrepreneur (C)	79
4.3.2. Environment (A)	82
4.3.3. Organisation (O)	83
4.3.4. Start-up (S)	85
4.4. The connections and interdependences between the elements of C.A.O.S.	87
5. Research results	95
5.1. Premise	95
5.2. A brief presentation of the case studies	96
5.3. Intuitive construction of concepts and categories	102
5.3.1. The personal element: who the entrepreneur is (C)	102
5.3.2. The macro-company element: where the company operates (A)	104
5.3.3. The company element: how the company works (O)	106
5.3.4. The time element: when the company is observed (S)	107
5.4. The development of the explanatory theory of C.A.O.S.	109
Conclusions	113
References	117